

ROGERS' CAPTOR MAY GET BIG SUM

Middletown Will Raise Reward for Olney Suspect.

ANOTHER MAN WANTED, TOO

Drove Buggy to Farm Day of Murders.
Think Him Accomplice of Fugitive.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—If Charles Henry Rogers, who is charged with the murder of the Olney brothers and Alice Ingerick and the murderous assault on Mrs. Georgia Ingerick four weeks ago, is not caught within the next forty-eight hours, the reward for the fugitive may be increased to $3,000. The advance is now being strongly agitated by prominent residents of this city.

The authorities are working on the supposition that two men were implicated in the murder, and are endeavoring to trace a tall, thin man with black mustache and curly hair, who drove a bay horse to a light wagon to the Olney farm on the day of the murder.

DEAD BODY GUARDED
BY A FAITHFUL DOG

MARION, Ind., Nov. 4.—The dead body of Harry Hart, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hart, was found in the woods near Warren, yesterday, guarded by his faithful dog. The dog refused to allow anyone to touch the body until the father of the boy arrived.

The parents of the boy live on a farm near Warren. They came to Marion Saturday, leaving the boy alone. When the boy had finished his work he took his father's shotgun and, with a neighboring boy, went hunting. Late in the evening the boys separated and one came home. When the parents of the Hart boy returned at 10 p. m., they missed their son, and a party started to find him. They searched all night and until they found the body in a fence corner, with the head nearly blown off by the discharge of the gun.

Six Weeks Will Finish Battleship Connecticut

Brooklyn Navy Yard Has Almost Won in Race With Louisiana—Two and One-Half Per Cent Ahead—More Work Likely.

It is expected that the first class battleship Connecticut, building at the navy yard in Brooklyn, will be finished in little more than a month.

A report received in Washington yesterday from the naval constructors of the vessel indicated that the craft is over 91 per cent finished.

Information from the Newport News Shipbuilding works shows that the Louisiana, whose construction is in competition to that of the Connecticut is over 34 per cent behind the navy yard built craft.

The march of construction in the case of the Connecticut has been unusually noticeable in the last few weeks, notwithstanding that Naval Constructor Baxter, who has had charge of the work, has been seriously delayed by the failure to get turret armor. In three months' time, the Connecticut caught up with the Louisiana and has now passed her in the degree of construction.

The rapidity with which the work at the navy yard has been done is so pronounced that in all probability Secretary Bonaparte will recommend and Congress approve the building of another battleship at the yard.

The possibility of constructing a battleship at an official navy yard at less cost and in quicker time than is possible at a private yard.

There were a hundred men working on the Connecticut yesterday and there was room for another hundred, but some of the armor had not arrived and is not expected until Monday.

ANTHRACITE MINERS FORMULATE DEMANDS

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 4.—The call for the joint convention of the anthracite miners to formulate demands upon the operators, which is to be held at Shamokin on December 4, will be issued on Monday by Secretary John Dempsey, of this district.

It is expected that delegates representing over 100,000 workers will be present. The chief demands, it is now assured, will be those for an eight-hour day, recognition of the union, a fixed standard of weight for coal, and a continuation of the conciliation board, as well as other demands which apply to various portions of the regions.

STAB WOUND DRESSED, VICTIM WENT HOME

Suffering from a stab wound in the right breast John Lewis, colored, twenty-one years old, of 151 Sixth street northwest, went to Freedman's Hospital last night, and applied for treatment. He told the doctors that he had been engaged in an altercation with another man in the O street armory, but did not know the name of his assailant. The wound was not serious and after it was dressed the man went home.

Sale of Blankets and Comfortables

Do you watch the market valuations—probably not—but your husband does—perhaps. Ask him about the recent rise in wool and cotton—he will tell you that prices are soaring.

Well, ours are not—we took advantage of a lapse in the market—bought months ago, quantities of cotton and wool blankets—bought strictly the best, as is always our wont.

Now, while other stores find it necessary to gradually raise their prices or get in cheaper qualities, we sell our old good standard merchandise at our regularly low prices.

Perhaps when all our present stock is gone, we too will have to raise prices (we will never lessen our qualities). But before we do, fill your own bedding chests for winter.

Tomorrow is a good time—all these values will surely be on hand.
